OTHER CASES IN COURT

Man Admits That He Steals Three Chickens From the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela — Owner And Driver of Auto Fined

Admitting that he had stolen three chickens from the Memorial hospital at Monongahela, Edward Moss appeared before Judge Erwin Cummins Monday. It appears that he had been employed at the hospital for the past nine years. On May 24 he became intoxicated and stole three chickens valued at $6.50. He was sentenced to pay the costs a fine of $1 and to spend 30 days in jail.

Lewis Jackson, colored, of Shire Oaks, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of aggravated assault and battery. It appears that on March 12 he cut George Fedor with a knife. Fedor was not seriously injured. Jackson was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $1 and to 60 days in the workhouse.

Adam Brosky entered a plea of guilty to charges of forcible breaking and entry and larceny in connection with the robbery of the store of the Cherry Valley Real Estate and Co-operative company, at Cherry Valley, on February 12. It appears that a few tools and some merchandise were taken. He was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $1 and to spend 11 months in the workhouse.

Joe Posa, an Italian who was arrested by the police of Monongahela on a statutory charge, entered a plea of guilty before Judge Erwin Cummins, and was sentenced to the Western penitentiary for a term of from six to 12 years.

The girl in the case is Betty Stoppa, a young Italian girl under 16 years of age, whose parents reside at Jenner, Westmoreland county. It seems that last fall Posa went to her home and represented to her father that he could secure work for her and she was sent with him. He took her to the house of Sylvester Onala, an Italian at Monongahela, where he kept the girl a prisoner for several days. She was afraid that he would kill her if she called for help, but she finally managed to get to the police with her story.

Posa made his escape and the girl was returned to her home. She is of excellent reputation. A short time ago Posa returned to Monongahela and was arrested immediately. The state police at Greensburg have notified the district attorney that he is wanted there in connection with a murder in that county. As soon as he was arrested he began to talk about the murder and claimed to know nothing about it.

James Roush and Andy Fostina of Triadelphia, W. Va., the former charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated and the latter with permitting an intoxicated person to operate his machine and with failure to stop after striking another car, were each sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $200 and to 60 days in the

BAN CERTAIN SOCIAL FUNCTIONS

Bethlehem, June 11.—Because of certain infractions of the college rules at the recent fraternity house parties at Lehigh University here the faculty has voted to ban such social gatherings next year.

The annual fraternity house parties just before the close of the school year had become an institution. After the parties this year the faculty announced they were not satisfied but another vote will be taken and students are hoping next year the ban will be lifted.

WANTS BIG COIN WRECK DAMAGE

Curtis Rankin, South Brownsville, has filed suit for damages against the Bell Telephone company in the Washington County courts. He seeks to recover $5,934.70. The action is based on personal injuries and upon the wrecking of an automobile of the plaintiff.

Mr. Rankin was injured June 8, 1923, on the Washington-Hickory road while driving an automobile, when a pole of the defendant company along the highway fell. The heavy piece of timber came down across the car and did much damage and the plaintiff was badly injured. He was laid up for three months.

The machine was owned by Fostina and driven by Rouse. On June 2, near Arden, they struck and wrecked the car of Andy Fortuna. Instead of stopping they attempted to escape, but James T. Haney, of the state highway patrol, witnessed the accident and pursued and captured the men.

TO IMPROVE THE RIVER ROAD

Another important step in the establishment of the river road from Monessen to Belle Vernon, was made last week when the State Highway department opened bids on the stretch of 12,591 feet of proposed highway between the two towns. Five contractors had submitted bids, and the margins were all close with Frazier & Mansfield of McKeesport being the lowest contestants with $193,748.47.

This bid was evidently satisfactory to the highway department, and they immediately forwarded the bid to the Westmoreland County commissioners, who gave their approval, signed, and returned the bid which is now awaiting final action. The successful bidder must now qualify under the regulations of the highway department, proving that he has sufficient equipment to satisfactorily complete the contract.

Should the award be given to the McKeesport firm, it is expected that work of construction will be under way before midsummer and that the road will be ready for traffic by fall. The contract price was high due to the fact that a bridge must be erected across the creek on the outskirts of Belle Vernon.

Bids for the construction of approximately 40 miles of new highway were opened by the State Highway department last week, the Rostraver road being one of the number being considered favorably.

Officers Tell Mendicants To Move On

Fred Moss, Mary Moss, his wife, and Mary Schoolsky, all hailing from Coal Hill, Fayette County, mendicants, were told to make themselves scarce by Burgess J. Bryant Tussing, after their arrest had been effected by Chief of Police James A. Murphy and Health Officer William M. Dauby. They were begging from "Tom, Dick and Harry" when noticed by Health Officer William M. Dauby. Their arrest was then effected by the health officer and the chief of police.

In speaking of the two, Mr. Dauby said that they all looked fully capable of performing manual labor, particularly the man, who is a strapping big fellow.

Monessen Man Being Held-Murder Accused

Jim Lombardo, aged 40 years, residing at 416 Ontario street, Monessen, was placed under arrest in Monongahela by the police of that city shortly after noon yesterday, and is being held in connection with the murder of Pasquale Serino, who was killed March 20, 1923, on the outskirts of Monessen near the brewery. The arrest was effected upon the information furnished by Mrs. Serino.

Lombardo was visiting with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Aello of Monongahela when he was seen and recognized by Mrs. Trunzo. According to the story told by Mrs. Trunzo, who swore to avenge her brother's death, and has been working diligently on the case for some time, the motive for the deed was caused through jealousy of the dead man's wife. In addition to Lombardo another who figured strongly in the affections of Mrs. Serino was Joe Posa, an Italian, who was sentenced yesterday by Judge Cummins to the Western penitentiary for a term of from six to 12 years on a statutory charge preferred by Betty Stoppa, a young Italian girl under 16 years of age.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

If at the time you filed your Federal Income Tax return you paid taxes in excess of the amount of tax reported no further payment will be due. If at the time you filed your return, you paid one-half of the amount of tax reported, no payment will be due until September 5. If at the time you filed your return, you paid only one-fourth of the amount of tax reported, you must pay on or before June 5, one-half of the amount paid by you when you filed your return. The main point to be borne in mind is that one-half of the tax due from you this year must have been paid on or before June 15.

The usual notices were issued by this office reminding income tax payers that the second installment of tax is due June 15. Of special interest to taxpayers is the provision carried in the new revenue law to the effect that the tax on income received by individuals in the calendar year 1923 will be reduced by 25 per cent. This means that every individual who is subject to income tax will be relieved of one-fourth of the tax liability which he reported the return filed on or prior to March 15 last, or if the tax was paid in full that he will receive a refund of one-fourth of his payment.

LOCAL BOY HIT BY AUTO GETS OFF LUCKY

Harry Manandise, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manandise of 413 Crest avenue, was struck by an automobile near his home yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock, and narrowly escaped serious injury, when he jumped from an ice truck into the path of an approaching machine. The lad was riding on the rear of Silbaugh's ice truck enroute to his home, and when nearing his residence, the path of a Chevrolet car driven by Abe Lessman, was struck and knocked down. Lessman immediately brought his car to a standstill and went to the assistance of the lad and with the aid of Harry DuJordan took him to a local physician's office, where his injuries were found not to be serious.

Monessen Man Being Held-Murder Accused

Jim Lombardo, aged 40 years, residing at 416 Ontario street, Monessen, was placed under arrest in Monongahela by the police of that city shortly after noon yesterday, and is being held in connection with the murder of Pasquale Serino, who was killed March 20, 1923, on the outskirts of Monessen near the brewery. The arrest was effected upon the information furnished by Mrs. Serino.

Lombardo was visiting with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Aello of Monongahela when he was seen and recognized by Mrs. Trunzo. According to the story told by Mrs. Trunzo, who swore to avenge her brother's death, and has been working diligently on the case for some time, the motive for the deed was caused through jealousy of the dead man's wife. In addition to Lombardo another who figured strongly in the affections of Mrs. Serino was Joe Posa, an Italian, who was sentenced yesterday by Judge Cummins to the Western penitentiary for a term of from six to 12 years on a statutory charge preferred by Betty Stoppa, a young Italian girl under 16 years of age.

Shortly after the murder of Serino, Lombardo married his widow and they have been residing at 461 Ontario street, Monessen. A month ago Lombardo had his wife sent to the county home on a charge of insanity. However, it is the opinion of many of the woman's friends that fearing her knowledge of the murder, Lombardo took this means of getting her out of the way.

Serino was a wellknown Monessen Italian and it is believed that he was lured to the darkened outskirts of the city and there pumped full of lead. No trace could be found of the murderer and although a thorough investigation has been carried on by Monessen authorities.

Mrs. Trunzo claims that Lombardo is the man to be prosecuted and many strange tales will undoubtedly be unfolded before the case is definitely and successfully brought to an end.

WILL SPEAK AT THE HOME OF THE SAGE OF MONTICELLO

U. S. Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Indiana and William Jennings Bryan, despite difference in political faith, will speak on the same platform and in behalf of the same patriotic cause which knows no party distinction, at the coming Fourth of July celebration at Monticello, the Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson.

The day will mark not only the 148th Anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of American Independence which Jefferson wrote, but also the 8th Anniversary of Jefferson's death just fifty years—almost to the hour and minute—after the signing of his matchless contribution to the political literature of the world.

The celebration will be directed by Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation which has acquired title to Monticello by a first payment on the purchase price, and is now conducting a nation-wide campaign for funds, with which to complete the purchase and provide for the enduring maintenance of Jefferson's beautiful old home as a national patriotic shrine.

The big feature of the day at Monticello, in which Senator Brookhart and Mr. Bryan are to participate, will be a patriotic rally of the National Education Society of the United States, an organization representing the educational forces of the entire nation, with a membership of close to 150,000.

It will hold its Annual Convention at Washington, D. C., beginning June 27th and ending with the trip to Monticello in which 4,000 educators drawn from the Universities, Colleges and Public Schools of the country will take part under the leadership of Miss Olive Jones, President of the Association.

$2,300 Bandits Loot When Poker Game In California Held Up

Three masked men dressed in overalls Monday night obtained more than $1800 in cash and about $500 worth of jewelry when they entered a gambling house in California and held up the occupants.

Quite a number of citizens were among those present and it is said that this is the first time that any gambling of any sort was known to have taken place in the building, which is a frame structure and which has been vacant for some time.

The hold up men opened the door quickly and ordered the victims to stick 'em up. One of them then started to search the clothing while the other two held leveled guns at the crowd. It is understood that the party doing the searching became so nervous that one of the others took his place. For this reason many believe them to be young inexperienced men.

One man succeeded in placing several hundred dollars in an empty case of pop bottles and it remained unseen by the thieves. Another turned a diamond ring on his finger in such a position that it was also unnoticed by them.

Then there made a hurried exit and were last seen hurrying in the direction of Coal Center.

BABY LIVES; GREAT VITALITY

Pittsburgh, June 10.—Six times in the six months since his birth Martin Vogel has been so near death that physicians and nurses at the Children's hospital abandoned hope.

But each time he came close to the border line, when death waited Martin fought back, such a feeble thumping mite that those who watched in despair wondered whence his tiny body summoned its powers of recuperation.

In that pitifully small body, with shriveled hands and reed-like legs, an amazing vitality rallied to save the baby from a fever of 107 degrees. A grown man, doctors said, would have died long before that temperature was reached.

The child weighed five pounds and a half at birth and now weighs 10 pounds. Physicians say he will recover and grow stronger day by day.

THE TWO YOUNG MURDERERS.

Leopold and Loeb, confessed kid-nappers and murderers of the Franks boy in Chicago, were both young and both described as precocious, the latter having taken his college degree at the age of 18 a year ago. The precocity of these young murderers in-avoidable recalls the case of the boy Sidis who attracted wide attention at a ten-year old student at Harvard, who took his final degrees at 16, later got into trouble in connection with some anarchistic disturbance, and recently was reported as working as an ordinary clerk for $25 per week and as being a young man of no promise. Premature intellectual brilliance is a dangerous thing; it would appear that nature exacts a penalty when there is marked departure from the usual course of mental development. The mind abnormally developed at a tender age may not only burn out swiftly, with incompetence to follow, but from the ashes may spring abnormalities likely to wreck the whole life.

Such seems to have been the story of the young Chicago murderers. The trivial reason they gave for their desire to commit the crime and their whole attitude as reported, seem to indicate, not insanity, but a mental twist or perversity not to be classed as normal. They are responsible for their crime and call for punishment, but at the same time they would appear to be outside the class of normal young men. Whatever the final report of the alienists, society cannot afford now or ever to let two such persons go free and retain the power to act again upon the inexplicable impulse impelling them to commit this amazing crime.

THE OFFICE CAT

President Coolidge is wishing he knew the answer to the old jingle which asks "How much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck could chuck wood?"

A GAME.
A little boy went forth to school
One day without his chum,
The teacher said, "Why, you're alone!
Why doesn't Willie come?"
"Oh Willie" sobbed the little boy—
There ain't no Willie now—
"What do you mean?" the teacher asked,
With puzzled knitted brow.
"Please sir," the little boy replied,
We made a bet for fun—
Which one could lean the farthest out
Our attic—Willie won."

The meanest man in the world: He hooked some crepe off a doorknob because he thought it could be made up into a natty scarf.

I made a big impression, said the fat lady as she arose and walked down the beach.

Looks mighty as though a number of gentlemen would have their names transferred from "Who's Who" to "Who's Through."

DON'T URGE HER.
When a girl insists that she can't sing, it may be modesty, and then again it may be the truth.

The man entered a store. Have you an adding machine? he asked.
No, sir, answered the clerk, but we have some nice counters.

Pat a man on the back too much and his head begins to swell. Aint't Nature Wonderful.

A Banquet That Was Almost A Tragedy

Three years ago at a banquet I was stricken with acute indigestion. Two doctors worked over me for an hour before I came to. I had had severe colic attacks before, but nothing like this.

No doctor or medicine gave me permanent help until a friend who was at the banquet, advised me to take a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I did with wonderful results. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will relieve or money refunded. At all druggists.

1,000 BEAUTIES ENHANCE NATURE

Spectacles in the movies have become so general that neither public nor reviewer find them extraordinary as a general thing, but now and then one comes along that is different. Spectacles, in the movie sense, usually mean huge crowds, enormous sets, costly equipment and elaborate costumes. But, in the William Fox production of "The Temple of Venus" the spectacle is one of nature, some of it unadorned, some more or less adorned in bewitching bathing costumes. The picture will be shown at the Majestic Theatre today and tomorrow.

In order to get the beauty of Nature unadorned, Director Henry Otto took his cast to Santa Cruz island, where he filmed the splendor of the grottoes and the winding beach, the verdure of the little gem of the Pacific and the magnificence of the rolling ocean beyond. Then, he adorned a thousand west coast bathing beauties in the prettiest little costumes to be found. The adjective "little" is used advisedly.

Phyllis Haver and Mary Philbin with David Butler in the male lead. The story compares the lives of two girls, one a native of the island, accustomed only to the simple beauty of her surroundings, the other a New York debutante, reared in the luxury of her parents' millions. Aside from the wealth of its settings, the picture has exceptional artistic merit and the story is particularly interesting.

It is easy to look at from the first scene to the last and not a minute or a foot of film is wasted in the whole production.

Odd Materials Used by Birds to Build Nests

When the material which a bird ordinarily uses for building its nest is lacking it will adapt anything handy to its purpose, with results that are sometimes distinctly odd. Some years ago a telephone subscriber at Simla, India, ringing up for a required number, was answered from four different offices at once.

What had happened was this: a crow had built its nest at the central office, where four wires converged, and used the clippings and bits of wire for the purpose, with the result that it established complete electrical communication between all four lines. Equally odd was the performance of a cormorant. It may be remembered that some years ago H. M. S. Sybille was wrecked off Lambert's bay on the southwest coast of Africa. A party of ship's officers went to visit the wreck in the following spring, and found that in the lookout on the mast-head a cormorant had built a nest in which were five eggs. The nest was made of odds and ends of steel wire and rope from the rigging of the wreck, and was lined with seaweed. Nest and eggs were taken, and are now in a museum.

Art of Diamond Cutting Originated in France

The art of diamond cutting dates from the end of the Fifteenth century. Formerly diamonds were set in their natural state, after having been cleaned, or else were cut in a very rude and imperfect manner. But in 1546 a young gentleman of Bruges, named Louis van Berghem, by rubbing a couple of diamonds together, observed that they attrited and polished their surfaces reciprocally, and that the artificial facets thus formed acquired an extraordinary splendor. This observation was the starting point of the diamond cutting and polishing industry, which was almost exclusively localized in Amsterdam, the Detroit News remarks.

It is recorded that Berghem made the first trial of his improved mode of cutting in 1575 on three large rough stones which were confided to his care by Charles the Bold, duke of Burgundy. The new industry was greatly encouraged by Cardinal Mazarin, who caused the diamonds in the French crown to be recut, whence they obtained the name of the twelve Mazarins.

Such popularity must be deserved

LUCK may win an occasional match. But it never made a champ. Cups can't be won year after year unless they are deserved. There are cup-winning cigarettes, too.

All eyes today are watching

Chesterfield—watching it win additional smokers at the rate of over 1000 a day.

Such popularity is not luck. Chesterfields deserve it. They deserve it simply by right of their decidedly better taste.

CHOOSE FOURTH
TO CELEBRATE

The national birthday, July 4, has been selected as the day for the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of Scottsdale as a borough, by the general committee of citizens of that municipality appointed by J. E. Tintman, president of council, and manager of the United States Cast Iron and Pipe Foundry of that wide awake industrial town.

The town was incorporated upon the petition of citizens of East Huntingdon township in February, 1874, named after Col. Thos. A. Scott, president of the great Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and at the instigation of the late Congressman George F. Huff, a resident of Greensburg, making the new town a county and state-wide enterprise.

The borough of Scottsdale was incorporated just one year after the completion of the Pennsylvania railroad to that place, or the opening of the Southwest branch to freight and passenger traffic. From a very insignificant beginning the town has grown to remarkable proportions in the past fifty years.

Dead Letter Office

The dead letter office is a division of the Post Office department under the control of the fourth assistant postmaster general to which unclaimed letters, parcels, etc., are sent from local post offices. It receives about 16,500,000 dead letters and parcels a year, and 9,000,000 post cards and postals. The loss to the general public through the careless directing of such matter is about $500,000 annually. No letters or packages are sent to the dead letter office until they have been given a directory service at the post office to which they are addressed, and all available methods to locate the addressee have been exhausted.

Origin of Petroleum

The question of the origin of petroleum is very complex. The oils are distinct from petroleum—are all of organic origin, vegetable or animal. Petroleum may have the same origin, and of late the view has been gaining ground that the occurrences of petroleum and coal are interrelated. But the advocates of an animal origin of petroleum have by no means given in. The possibility of an organic origin also continues to find support, and the great variety of petroleum suggests various parent materials and modes of production.—Detroit News.

In Society's Realm

The regular monthly meeting of the Anna Kugler class of the Christ Lutheran church was held at the home of Miss Freda Jones, Ninth street; Lincoln avenue, recently with a good attendance. In the absence of the president, Miss Verna Brown, the vice-president took charge of the business session which was followed by a social hour. Music was the principal diversion. A dainty luncheon was served by the mother of the hostess, assisted by a sister, Miss Hazel. The members departed at a late hour to meet at the home of Miss Lula Watson, Seventh street and Meadow avenue, July 10.

CONSTABLE WYATT IN A CLEANUP

Following close upon his orders to all saloons and other places that have openly violated the liquor law in Kostraver township, Constable Walter Wyatt Saturday night started out to clean up several "wet spots" that were known to be operating in violation of the law.

The first place visited was the home of Joe Tarquinio, a blind man residing at East Schoonmaker avenue, Monessen. The officer discovered a 25 gallon still, 15 gallons of moonshine and 150 gallons of mash. The prisoner has a woman housekeeper, who, it is alleged, assists him in manufacturing the illicit liquor and as this is his third offense, it is likely that some effort will be made to send him to an institution.

Following this raid the officer visited the notorious Blue Bird Inn along the West Newton road. Word had evidently been sent ahead that the officer was coming, as the place was locked and the proprietor, William Simpson, was absent. However, the officer found ten men and four women about the place, acting in a disorderly manner, and they were taken into custody and placed forfeits of $50 each for a hearing and blood test.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH AND ITS EFFORTS

Among the reports received by the Episcopal church in connection with its efforts to secure funds for the rebuilding of the missionary property destroyed in the Japan earthquake of last September is one from Rev. Yoshimichi Sugiura, a Japanese Christian priest who is spending his life among the denizens of "The Island" one of the abandoned sections of the Japanese capital.

Ten years ago "Nakamura" was a name of great significance to the police of Tokyo. The man whom it designated, a frequenter of the island, had a long criminal record, which ran the gamut of the code. He had served ten prison sentences of varying lengths, and the hand of every police agent in the city was turned against him, when by mere chance he came under the influence of Rev. Mr. Sugiura. Mr. Sugiura, frail, soft spoken, the antithesis of all that Nakamura represented brought about such a change in the famous criminal that within a year he had not only abandoned his career of crime, but had become a member of the Christian Church and was enlisted as a worker in the Church of the True Light which Mr. Sugiura had planted in the heart of the abandoned section.

Having learned shoe making during his prison term, Nakamura was induced by his benefactor to open up a small establishment in a suburb of Tokyo. The business prospered, and from time to time human wrecks whom Mr. Sugiura salvaged on the Island were taken out to Nakamura's and put to work in the shoe shop. Within a few years the establishment was affording employment to fifty men and once a week mission meetings were held there which were addressed by Mr. Sugiura and other Christian missionaries.

Get Beautiful Effects From Lighted Marble

When an official of the United States bureau of standards was making an inspection of indoor lighting arrangements as used in Europe he was surprised to find an old church in Italy in which the daylight was filtered through thin slabs of delicate tinted marble. The effect was a surprisingly beautiful one and one not easily duplicated by our makers of ornamental glassware, as there is a peculiar charm about the natural coloring of some of the Italian marbles, writes the Washington Star.

However, the marble must be so thin for such a purpose that it could not form a commercial substitute for window panes or for use in electric light fixtures. Now a French investigator has found that such marble slabs can be used in much greater thickness if they are polished on both sides and then saturated with paraffin or shellac. By giving them such a treatment he has been able to obtain beautiful effects in illuminating corridors by the light of tungsten lamps concealed behind the marble walls of the hallways. The loss of light is said to be only about 20 per cent (or no more than with most of the milky glassware used in fixtures), and as the whole plate of marble glows the effect is surprisingly charming and unusual.

Gorilla Not Ferocious Animal Long Pictured

Apparently the gorilla has been a much maligned beast. The old stories of his ferocity must have been all wrong, for now we are told on what seems to be indubitable authority that these biggest of apes are most sensitive creatures and that the difficulty hitherto experienced in keeping them alive when captured was due to failure to treat them with the delicate consideration, without which they soon die of broken hearts.

What they really want is to be loved. Without that they fall into a lethargy of despair that passes for stupidity, but when the recipients of tender and delicate attentions they reveal the intelligence to be expected of man's nearest relations.

As Dr. Hornaday countenances these new characteristics of the gorilla nature, they cannot be ascribed to the ingenuity of overzealous press agents, as they are tempted to suspect who rather enjoyed—when at a safe distance—bearing about gun barrels broken over hairy arms, the threatening clash of monstrous teeth in preparation for attacks on lions and the beating of resonant breasts in the working of murderous rage.

But perhaps gorillas have changed, and deteriorated since Du Chaillu's day. That bold traveler and fine writer did not see them as mere monsters, or as subjects for any angioneuroses.—New York Times.

Rhinoceros Can Scent Enemy Two Miles Off

Many animals give off scent through their feet. The bloodhound can "scent" a fox at 100 yards.

Scent depends a great deal on the pheromone condition; on a sharp, dry day it does not "lay." On a muggy, still day, however, even human beings will scent a fox, as their odor sticks to surrounding objects, such as bushes and hedges.

Elephants have a wonderful sense of smell, either from breath or body, but the keenest scented animal is undoubtedly the rhinoceros. One big game hunter has stated that in favorable conditions this animal can "wind" a man for two miles. This may be considered a tall order, but in Africa the atmosphere is wonderfully clear.

What is the explanation of dogs and cats finding their way back to their original homes after being taken many miles away? The explanation is believed to be "ether." Scent is conveyed to animals "on the wind" by this means.—Exchange.

April Fool

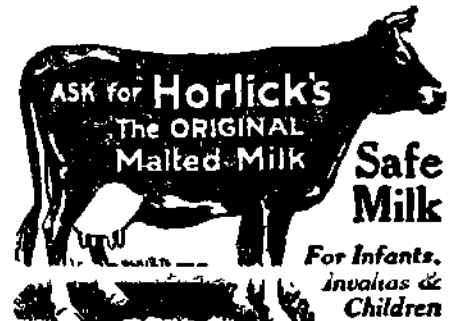

Many attempts have been made to account for "All Fools day" or April Fool day. The most satisfactory explanation seems to be as follows: Before the English changed their calendar in 1752 the legal year began March 25 instead of January 1. Most all of the feast days and festivals were originally celebrated eight days after New Year's day, March 25. It was therefore the day on which the New Year festivals reached the high point and ended. The Roman festival known as the Feast of Fools on February 17 may have influenced April Fool, because on that day the Romans also played tricks and practical jokes. The Hindus have a spring festival on March 31. Some have tried to connect "All Fools day" with the mock trial of Christ, but the connection is probably only imaginary.

Playtime Important

It is only for the sake of the free life that material competence and knowledge of fact are worth attaining. Facts for a living creature are only instruments; his play life is his true life. On his working days, when he is attentive to matter, he is only his own servant, preparing the feast. He becomes his own master in his holidays and in his sportive passions. Among these must be counted literature and philosophy, and so much of love, religion and patriotism as is not in effort to survive materiality. In such enthusiasm there is much as subversion, but what they attest is really not the character of the external facts concerned, but only the spiritual uses to which the spirit turns them.—G. Santayana in Yale Review

Sheep in America

Sheep were unknown in the domesticated state in America until after the Spanish conquest. The beginning of the sheep industry in the New World dates back to the time of Cortez and his conquest of Mexico in the early part of the sixteenth century. Nearly all Mexican sheep can be traced to early Castile breeds. This is also the source of the early sheep in the western part of the United States. It is believed that the English colonists first brought sheep to Virginia in 1609, originally all sheep probably came from Asia, but American breeds all sprang from stock imported from Europe.

A New Type of Low Price Car is Ready to be Announced

If you are considering the purchase of an automobile—WAIT!

In seven days a leading local dealer will be offering a new type of motor car—one that represents many months' closely guarded research on the part of a prominent manufacturer.

This will mark one of the great epochs in the development of the automobile.

It will be a six cylinder car of distinguished appearance, comparatively light in weight, yet extraordinarily strong and enduring.

It will be powered by a new type of motor which provides a range of hill and highway performance that is unique in the light of existing design.

Its owners will never be compelled to use an oil can or grease gun on any chassis part.

"One Shot"
This phrase will be on every tongue for months to come. It marks the end of a grimy, greasy, ever-distasteful task that is costly to neglect. It marks the end of the oil can and the grease gun. It is the name of an exclusive feature on a car that will make motoring history. What is it? Next week's advertisement tells all.

It will have as standard equipment—at no extra cost—genuine supersize balloon tires; and as optional equipment, four-wheel brakes of the most advanced design.

It will bear a name now known and respected wherever motor cars run.

It will be manufactured as a unit in a plant that is uncommon in size and unexcelled in the completeness of its equipment.

In view of this, we feel justified in urging all to withhold until next week any definite decision to purchase any motor car—however easily, however inexpensive.

A large advertisement appearing in this publication one week hence will reveal complete details and state where this truly marvelous new car may be seen.
